FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

NEW WILLISTOWN TOWNSHIP PUBLIC WORKS FACILITY DEMOLITION AND CONSTRUCTION SCHEDULE

Demolition of the truck barn and salt bins at the Willistown Township Public Works facility began this week. Phase I of the project will include construction and installation of the new salt shed and fuel station. Preparatory earthwork for those structures will follow demolition. Demolition of the auxiliary storage shed has been moved up to Phase I. While the demolition began later than originally planned, it is anticipated that Phase I of the project to be completed by the end of the year. Delays resulted from an extended period of due diligence including Zoning and Land Development review and approvals at public meetings.

Phase II, Land Development, will include the demolition of the main Public Works building, including the decommissioning of the existing underground fuel tanks, and construction of the new building and auxiliary shed. Building erection is anticipated to begin in February 2026 with overall project completion projected for the third quarter of 2026.

The Township is grateful for the resident support we have received for this important project. To learn more about this project, read past news releases, and to view building renderings, please visit www.willistown.pa.us/publicworks.
